December 4, 2002

Dear Bahá'í Friends,

It is with great pleasure that we announce the launching of the recruitment Web site for the Office of Personnel at the Bahá'í World Centre. This site, located at <https://bahai.bwc.org/service/>, will act as a channel through which the friends from around the world who have access to the Internet can view information on and express interest in service at the Bahá'í World Centre. We wish to emphasise that this site is a supplement to our regular recruitment efforts, and those friends without access to the Internet may, of course, continue to send applications for service by post and fax.

The Web site, which has been designed to be viewed using both sophisticated and basic computer systems, contains the following:

- Descriptions of the functions of departments and offices at the World Centre
- An overview of the recruitment process
- Descriptions of service opportunities currently available
- Descriptions of the types of skills needed on an ongoing basis
- A description of life and service at the World Centre and some facts about living in Israel
- Answers to frequently asked questions about service at the World Centre
- An on-line biographical information form that may be used to submit an offer of service

We would be happy to receive any feedback about the Web site by email at serve@bwc.org.

With loving Bahá'í greetings,

It is written simply and in an informal style, so that most people, including young people, will be able to understand it.

Copies, costing 10 pence plus postage, are available from the Warwick Bookshop, email leaflets@netcomuk.co.uk.
