REMARKS

Transliteration means putting the letters of one alphabet into another alphabet. There are sounds in Arabic and Persian which have no English equivalents. For this reason letters and combinations have to be made up to represent these sounds: gh, kh, and so forth. Besides this, Persian has four z's, three s's, two t's and two h's, which have to be differentiated in English by made-up letters, such as ḡ, ḥ and ṭ.

Persian and Arabic pronunciation varies throughout the Middle East; people from Cairo, Ṭihrán and Káshán respectively would pronounce the same word three different ways. These variations are the greater because short vowels are not written; for example, "cat" would be spelled "ct." A Persian, seeing for the first time a list of unfamiliar Persian towns, cannot tell how to pronounce them. (To help Persian and Arab readers pronounce unfamiliar words "diacritical" marks are used.) Ṭihrán Persian is considered the best.

In the early days, Orientalists added to the confusion by transliterating Persian and Arabic to suit themselves. A German might spell Sháh "Schah" while a Frenchman spelled it "Chah." On March 12, 1923, the Guardian of the Faith requested the Bahá'ís to "avoid confusion in future" by faithfully adhering to a uniform spelling (which had been adopted at one of the International Oriental Congresses). On November 26, 1923, the Guardian wrote:

"I am confident that the friends will not feel their energy and patience taxed by a scrupulous adherence to what is an authoritative and universal, though arbitrary code for the spelling of Oriental terms." These communications from Shoghi Effendi appear in Bahá'í Administration, page 56.

The result has been that order has replaced the previous individualistic and whimsical spelling of various early texts. Today a student, seeing a Persian or Arabic word transliterated according to this system, can immediately write the word back into the original, whereas formerly he often had to guess at what the original might be.

The "rhymes-with" and the "sounds-like" method is in the present writer's view the easiest now available. The American public is not polyglot and balks at phonetic symbols and other complicated aids familiar to linguists. An accurate pronunciation can be acquired only by listening to, and imitating, persons accurately speaking a given tongue. At best, the present text can provide only an approximation to the original Persian sounds.

It was not possible to include every proper noun in the Bahá'í Writings, but an attempt has been made to list names most often present in compounds. If a Persian or Arabic name is carefully scrutinized, element by element, it will prove easier to deal with: Shaykh Ahmad-i-Ahs'i means a religious leader named Ahmad from the town of Ahsá. Hájí Mírzá Siyyid 'Alí means one who has made the pilgrimage to Mecca, is of the scholar class and a descendant of the Prophet Muhammad, and named 'Alí. The compound Abu'l-Ḥasan means Father of Ḥasan. The last element, when it does not refer to a town, often denotes the man's occupation: Bazzáz is a cloth merchant, Rikáb-Sáz a stirrup maker. Mírzá at the beginning of a name denotes an educated person or a scholar; at the end of a name it means Prince.

ه	h	h	5
ی	y, í	yes, ee	10
ی	.	silent "uh"	1

* The non-Arabic letters in the Persian alphabet have no abjad value.

a as in account, or cat

í as "e" in best

u as "o" in short

á as in arm

í as "ee" in meet

ú as "oo" in moon

aw ... as "ow" in mown

These four letters are pronounced "z": dh, ḍ, z, z.

These three letters are pronounced "ss": th, ṣ, s.

These two letters are pronounced "t": ṭ, t.

These two letters are pronounced "h": ḥ, h.

Kh is pronounced like the "ch" in Scotch loch.

Zh is pronounced like "s" in pleasure.

Q and gh are almost unpronounceable by Americans. The sound is a deep guttural not unlike the sound made in gargling at the base of the throat; substitute a "g," a "k," or a Parisian "r."

Áh is pronounced approximately as in rah-rah or hurrah.

The other letters and combinations are the same as in English; e.g., ch as in church, and j as in John.

Note that ‘ represents a sort of silent "uh," produced in the chest; the same applies somewhat to ’, which represents a pause; the word Bahá'í should include the pause prior to final í: Ba-há...ee.

Stress every syllable equally, then repeat the word more rapidly, and you will not go too far wrong.

In the syllable "eh," used so frequently in what follows, the "e" is pronounced like "e" in set, and the "h" is aspirated.

Do not swallow the "h's"; breathe them. Ṭíhrán is Teh-Ron. Alláh-u-Abhá is Alláh-ho-Abhá.

N.B. Usually mispronounced by Americans is the syllable "ar"; this does not rhyme with we are. It rhymes with the "ar" in Harry: Ṭabarsí is pronounced: Ta-bar-see.

The translations and definitions of terms appearing here are from the writings of Shoghi Effendi, wherever available. Other sources included the Bahá'í World volumes, standard Persian and Arabic dictionaries, encyclopedias such as Hughes' Dictionary of Islám and the Shorter Encyclopedia of Islám, various English translations of the Qur'án, R. A. Nicholson's Commentary on the Mathnawí, E. G. Browne's A Literary History of Persia, and Gobineau's Trois Ans en Asie.

Abbreviations are as follows:

BN	Bahá'í News
BW	Bahá'í World
DB	The Dawn-Breakers
Gl.	The Gleanings...from Bahá'u'lláh
GPB	God Passes By, by Shoghi Effendi
L.Hist.	Literary History of Persia, by E. G. Browne
PDC	Promised Day is Come, by Shoghi Effendi
PUP	Promulgation of Universal Peace, by 'Abdu'l-Bahá
r.w.	Rhymes with
SAQ	Some Answered Questions, by 'Abdu'l-Bahá
SV	Seven Valleys, by Bahá'u'lláh
SW	Epistle to the Son of the Wolf, by Bahá'u'lláh
Tr.Narr.	A Traveller's Narrative, by 'Abdu'l-Bahá (See E. G. Browne, Episode of the Báb)
WOB	World Order of Bahá'u'lláh, by Shoghi Effendi

Be sure to pronounce the middle column in the glossary to sound like or rhyme with English, remembering that "a" without accent mark is as in cat and "ar" rhymes with Harry. Ron, Al and Don are pronounced like the boys' names. Awn rhymes with awning (we freely admit that "aw" is too broad for the Persian sound involved, and "ah" not quite broad enough); do not swallow any letters, and breathe the h's; Oz sounds like Wizard of Oz.

— A —

'Abá	Ab-awé	Cloak, mantle
'Abbás-Qulí Khán-i-i Lárijání	ab-boss-coolie- con-eh-lorry- John-ee	Sniper who killed Mullá Husayn (DB 379), Feb. 1, 1849.

He recruited an army of 12,000 men and it was thought he could conquer the believers in "the space of two days." (DB 360).
'Abdu'lláh-i-Ubaṣṣ	abd-ol-láh-heh-obey	Powerful Medinite chief and Muḥammad's bitter opponent, whose hopes of sovereignty were defeated when the Medinites sent for the Prophet to rule over them. He was the leader of the Hypocrites (munáfiqún) who secretly thwarted and resisted the Prophet at Medina. (Muir, Sir Wm., The Life of Moḥammad , 181).

'Abdu'l-Majid	abd-ol-ma-jeed	Sultan of Turkey 1839-1861. Born 1823.
Abjad	ab-jad	"The name of an arithmetical arrangement of the alphabet, the letters of which have different powers [numerical values] from one to one thousand. It is in the order of the alphabet as used by the Jews as far as 400, the six remaining letters being added by the Arabians." (Hughes).
Abraham		"Father of a Multitude." An inhabitant of Ur in Chaldee, who founded the Jewish nation. Ancestor of Bahá'u'lláh through Katurah. This Manifestation of God is also called the Friend of God and the Father of the Faithful. (GPB 94).
Abu-'Abdi'lláh (or Abí -- for grammatical reasons)	aboo-ab-del-láh	Designation of the sixth Imám, Ja'far-i-Šádiq (the Veridical), great-grandson of al-Husayn. Died AD 765, poisoned by Manšúr, the 'Abbáside Caliph.
Abú-'Alí Sína' , also Ibn-i-Sina	aboo-alley-seen-aw	Avicenna, 980-1037? A.D., Persian physician and philosopher. The Shifá and the Qánún or Canon of Medicine are his most famous works.
Abú-Dhar	aboo-zar (ar as in Harry)	The shepherd who became a Companion of Muḥammad; celebrated for piety and asceticism, he preached the equality of all believers and denounced luxury. Claimed as a precursor by Muslim mystics. Bahá'u'lláh speaks of him as becoming "a prince of nations" SW 19.
Abú-Ja'far	aboo-ja-far (ar as in Harry)	This is the Kunyah or designation of the fifth Imám, Muḥammad-Báqir (AD 676-731). SW 113. Ab (or abu) means father.
Abu Jahl	aboo-ja-hl	The Father of Ignorance, Muslim surname of Muḥammad's bitter opponent, his uncle and an influential Meccan called Abu'l-Hikam, the Father of Wísdoms. Killed at Badr, he is said to have been called by Muḥammad "the Pharaoh of his people."
Abú Naşr	aboo-nass-r	Al-Fárábí, whom Browne calls the "greatest philosopher of Islam before Avicenna." d.AD 950. Nicholson adds, "He devoted himself to the study of Aristotle, whom Moslems agree with Dante in regarding as 'il maestro di color che sanno.'"
Abu'l-Ḥasan- 'Alí	abol-hass-san-alee	"Last of the Four Gates." See Abváb-i-Arba'ih , DB Liii. Dying, he refused to name a successor, saying that God had another plan.
Abu'l-Qásim-i-Káshf	abol-caw-sem-eh-caw-shee	A believer martyred through the decreé pronounced by Mírzá Yahyá. (SW 176).
Abváb-i-Arba'ih	ab-vob-eh-ar-ba...eh	The Four Gates. Successive emissaries, for 69 years after the "disappearance," i.e. death, of the 12th Imám in 260 A.H., between the "Hidden Imám" and the people.

'Ád	odd	Tribe living in Arabia immediately after Noah, and which built large edifices and pillars in "al-Aḥqáf" (The Sand Dunes). They grew haughty because of their prosperity and were destroyed for rejecting their Prophet, Húd. Cf. Qur'án 7:65, 41:15, 26:128, 89:5, etc.
Adam		Manifestation of God who inaugurated a 6,000 year cycle ending with the Dispensation of the Báb. "The Faith of Bahá'u'lláh should indeed be regarded, if we wish to be faithful to the tremendous implications of its message, as the culmination of a cycle, the final stage in a series of successive, of preliminary and progressive revelations. These, beginning with Adam and ending with the Báb, have paved the way and anticipated with an ever-increasing emphasis the advent of that Day of Days in which He Who is the Promise of All Ages should be made manifest." (Shoghi Effendi, WOB 103). The Guardian further writes of "the rise of the Orb of Bahá'u'lláh's most sublime Revelation marking the consummation of the six thousand year cycle ushered in by Adam, glorified by all past prophets and sealed with the blood of the Author of the Bábí Dispensation." (BN, insert dated Oct. 8, 1952). Adam in Persian means man. The Qur'án uses the same phrase for the creation of Adam as for that of Jesus Christ; cf. 15:29, 66:12, etc.: "breathed of My spirit into him."
Adamic cycle		Cycle "stretching back as far as the first dawns of the world's recorded religious history....." and ending with the Dispensation of the Báb.
Adhán	az-awn	"Announcement"; the Muslim call to prayer, proclaimed by the muezzin before the five stated times of prayer.
Ádhirbáyján	Oz-air-by-John	Province in Northwest Persia.
Afchih	aff-cheh	Village near Tíhrán, site of Bahá'u'lláh's summer residence.
Afnán	aff-nawn	Twigs, i.e., the relatives of the Báb. (GPB 239).
Aghsán	ax-awn	Branches, i.e., the sons and descendants of Bahá'u'lláh. (SW 94) (GPB 239).
A.H.		Anno Hejirae -- in the year of the Hegira; date reckoned according to the Muḥammadan era, which began in 622 A.D. with the "flight" -- properly emigration or severing of relations -- of Muḥammad from Mecca to Medina. Other spelling: Hijrah.
Ahlu'l-Kitáb	ahl-ol-ket-ob	The People of the Book. Qur'anic term explained by Bahá'u'lláh, Iqán, 16: "It is evident that by the 'people of the Book,' who have repelled their fellow-men from the straight path of God, is meant none other than the divines of that age....." Cf. Qur'an 3:70; 3:71; 3:99.
Aḥmad Big Tawffiq	a-h-mad-beg-tow-feeg	"Sagacious and humane" governor of 'Akká, who at the suggestion of Bahá'u'lláh restored the aqueduct leading to 'Akká.
Akbar	ack-bar (or as in Harry)	Greater; greatest.

'Akká	ack-caw	Prison city north of Mt. Carmel, Israel; ancient Ptolemais and the "Strong City" of the Psalms. Site of the Most Great Prison where Bahá'u'lláh was incarcerated. A Tablet of 'Abdu'l-Bahá to Mrs. Ella G. Cooper states: "It is recorded in the Bible: 'Achor shall be a door of hope unto them.' This Achor is the City of 'Akká. Whoever interprets this otherwise is ignorant." (Daily Lessons , by H. S. Goodall and E. G. Cooper; quoted Tablet begins on p. 92; specific reference is to Hosea 2:15; transliteration above modernized). (GPB 184; 165). The St. Jean d'Acre of the Crusaders.
'Alí	a-lee	The first Imam, the rightful successor of Muḥammad; also the fourth Caliph. Cousin of Muḥammad and husband of Fátimih, he is known by titles including the Commander of the Faithful, the Lion of God, and the Lord of Saintship. Saint and warrior, brilliant writer and administrator, he was killed at Kufa by Ibn-i-Muljam (AQ 661). Amír-'Alí states: "Ali was its (chivalry's) beau-idéal -- an impersonation of gallantry, of bravery, of generosity; pure, gentle, and learned, 'without fear and without reproach,' he set the world the noblest example of chivalrous grandeur of character." (The Spirit of Islám , 254).
'Alí-Khán-i-Máh-Kú'	a-lee-con-eh- maw-coo-ee	Warden of the Castle of Máh-Kú.
'Alí Mardán Khán, Fort of	a-lee-mar-Don-con	Storm-center at Zanján.
'Alí-Páshá	a-lee-paw-shaw	Prime Minister of Turkey, denounced in the Lawḥ-i-Ra'ís. (GPB 231).
Alif.Lám.Mím.	aleff-lawm-meem	"A.L.M." Cf. Qur'an 2:1. Many surihs of the Qur'an are prefaced by disconnected letters. Cf. Iqan 202: "In the disconnected letters of the Qur'án the mysteries of the divine Essence are enshrined, and within their shells the pearls of His Unity are treasured."
'Alíyu'lláhí	a-lee-yol-law-hee	Islámic sect, found principally in Western Persia and also known as Nişárá and Ahlu'l-Ḥaqq, which teaches that 'Alí is an avatar. (Gobineau, Trois Ans en Asie , 338).
Alláh	al-láh	God. The most prevalent explanation of this word, given in such works as the Shorter Encyclopedia of Islam , is that the pre-Islamic Arabs worshipped as head of their pantheon a god called Alláh, meaning the iláh, or the god. Muḥam-mad taught: "There is no iláh save the iláh," "Lá iláhá illa'lláh," Allah being thus a combination of the particle "the" (al) and iláh.
Alláh-u-Abhá	Alláh-ho-Ab-há	God is All-Glorious. The Greatest Name, adopted during the period of Bahá'u'lláh's exile in Adrianople as a greeting among Bahá'ís. (GPB 176). Another form of the Greatest Name -- not used as a greeting but an invocation -- is Yá Bahá'u'l-Abhá, O Thou the Glory of Glories!
'Amá	am-awe	Light cloud, term symbolizing the First Invisible Substance.
Amín	am-een	The trusted one; designation of Muḥammad as a youth.

Amín-i-Ilááh	am-meen-eh-el- awe-hee	Trusted one of God; first Persian pilgrim to penetrate into 'Akká and glimpse the imprisoned Bahá'u'lláh. (GPB 187).
Amínu 'l-Bayán	am-een-ol-by-awn	Surname of Hájí Sháh Muḥammad-i-Manshádí, one of the Persian believers who guarded the remains of the Báb. (GPB 274).
Amír	am-eer	Prince, governor, lord, commander, etc.
Amír-Nizám, Mírzá Taqí Khán	Am-eer-nez-awn, mere-zaw- tackee-con	Grand Vizier and "prime mover of the forces that precipitated the Báb's martyrdom." (DB 526). Murdered by order of Náṣiri'd-Dín Sháh.
Amríká	America	The United States, visited by 'Abdu'l-Bahá in 1912. Cradle of Bahá'í Administrative Order (GPB 329; 269).
Amru'lláh	am-rol-láh	The Cause of God; also the Command of God.
Ámul	awe-mol	Persian town near Caspian, where Bahá'u'lláh was bastinadoed in the presence of the assembled 'ulamás (Nov-Dec. 1848), when He had attempted to join the besieged at Ṭabarsí. (DB 372).
Anas, Son of Malik	a-nass; maw-leck	One of the most prolific traditionists, from the age of ten a servant of Muḥammad.
Anís	a-neess	Surname of the disciple who died with the Báb; Mírzá Muḥammad-'Alí.
Anísá	a-nee-saw	Tree of Life; associated with the new Covenant (GPB 238).
Anṣár	ann-sawr	"Helpers." Title of those Medinites who rallied around Muḥammad after His flight from Mecca to Medina; often coupled with al-Muhájirún, the emigrants, title of those Muslims who migrated from Mecca to Medina.
Áqa	aw-caw	Master; title given by Bahá'u'lláh to 'Abdu'l-Bahá. Also means mulla or sir.
Áqá Buzurg of Khurásán	awe-caw-bo-zorg; core-aw-sawn	Badí' (wonderful); Bahá'u'lláh's martyred messenger to the Sháh of Persia.
Áqá Ján-i-Khamsih	awe-caw-John-eh- cam-seh	Colonel who carried out the execution of the Báb.
Áqá Riḍá	awe-caw-rezz-awe	Supporter of Bahá'u'lláh, exiled with Him all the way from Baghdad to 'Akká.
Áqáy-i-Kalím	awe-caw-yeh- cal-eem	Noble brother of Bahá'u'lláh. See Mírzá Músá.

Aqṣá Mosque	ack-saw	"The Most Remote" Mosque, at Jerusalem; built on Temple area, and save Mecca alone, the most sacred spot in Islám. Also called as-Ṣakḥrah, "The Rock," also "The Holy House." (GPB xiii).
'Arafih	a-raff-eh	Vigil of the Feast of Sacrifice, when the Mecca pilgrims proceed to Mt. 'Arafát. The 9th day of the month of Ḍhi'l-Ḥijjih. (DB 32).
Arḍ-i-Sirr	ar-zeh-sair	Land of Mystery (Adrianople). The numerical value of Sirr (mystery) is identical with that of Adimih (Adrianople) (i.e., 260).
Ardishír Mírzá	ar-desh-sheer-mere-zaw	A governor of Ṭihrán.
'Árif	awr-eff	Mystic knower, gnostic.
Ashraf	ash-raff	Man's name.
'Ashúrá	osh-oo-raw	The tenth of Muḥarram on which day the Imám Ḥusayn was martyred.
Ásíyih	awe-see-yeh	Qur'án 66:11, the wife of Pharaoh. To Muslims one of four perfect women, the others being Sarah, the Virgin Mary, and Fatimih (See GPB 75) N.B. The reference in PUP I, 170 and index should be corrected to read Ásíyih , not Ayeshah . The commentators say that because she believed in Moses, Pharaoh set a rock on her breast, fastened her hands to four stakes and left her in the blazing sun.
Asmá'u'l-Ḥusná	a-smaw-ol-hoss-naw	Most Beautiful Names (of God); phrases occurring in Qur'án 7:179, 17:110, etc. According to a ḥadīth, Muḥammad said, "Verily there are 99 names of God, and whoever recites them shall enter Paradise." The traditions also maintain that the 'Almighty has a hundredth name, the "Most Great Name," and that whoever calls on God by this Name shall obtain all his desires. Down the ages, various mystic orders have striven to, and claimed to, possess the Greatest Name -- which was not revealed until the Advent of Bahá'u'lláh. The Greatest Name is referred to as Ism-i-A'zam .
'Aṭṭár	at-tar (r.w. tar)	Shaykh Farídu'd-Dín 'Aṭṭár, "the Druggist", one who deals in attar of roses, etc. Great Persian mystic poet of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, born Níshápúr. His copious works include the Manṭiqu'l-Ṭayr in which the birds, in search of the Símurgh , pass through the seven valleys of Search, Love, Knowledge, Independence, Unification, Amazement, Destitution and Annihilation.
'Aválim	av-awe-lem	"Worlds." Title of a work prophesying the opposition of the divines to the Promised One.
'Aynu'l-Baqar	ain-ol-bak-kar (or as in Harry)	The Spring of the Cow, in 'Akká.
Ayyám-i-Há	l-yawm-eh-haw	"Days of H." H according to the abjad system equals 5; the letters in the name of the Báb also total 5. The intercalary days.
Ayyam-i-Shidád	l-yawm-eh-shed-odd	Days of Stress: the supreme crisis in Adrianople, engineered by the diabolical Siyyid Muḥammad. (GPB 163).

A'zam	a...zam	The Greatest.
'Azíz Khán-i-Sardár	az-ease-con-eh-sar-dawr (ar as in Harry)	Slayer of Tahirih.
'Azím (Turshízi)	a-zeem; tor-shee-zee	Man who publicly confessed his complicity in the attempt on the life of Náṣiri' d-Dín Sháh.

Be. Qur'án 3:42 states: "When He decreeth a thing, He only saith, 'Be,' and it is." The reference in Prayers and Meditations, page 85, thus means, "through His name creation was created." The Arabic is "k" and "n"--kun.

Bá and Há	baw-and-haw	B and H meaning Bahá. The Bahá'í ring symbol shows two "b's", four "h's" and two stars.
Báb	rhymes with throb	The Gate. The Prophet-Herald of Bahá'u'lláh, "The Manifestation of the Unity and Oneness of God and the Forerunner of the Ancient Beauty" (BA 11); the return of the Prophet Elijah, of John the Baptist and of the Twelfth Imám (GPB 276, 58); "My First Name," (GPB 57), Whom "posterity will recognize as standing at the confluence of two universal prophetic cycles, the Adamic...and the Bahá'í...." (GPB 54). "the independent Author of a divinely revealed Dispensation...also...the Herald of a new Era and the Inaugurator of a great universal prophetic cycle." (GPB 57). Born Shíráz, Oct. 20, 1819; martyred Tabríz, July 9, 1850.
Bábí	bob-ee	Of or pertaining to the Báb.
Bábí Dispensation		Began May 22, 1844 A.D. at two hours and eleven minutes after sunset in Shíráz, Persia. Ended in the year 1280 A.H. (WOB 102; GPB xi).
Babí-Dukhtarán	bob-ee-dock-tar-awn	Site in Shíráz where the Báb's son is buried.
Bábu'l-Báb	bob-ol-bob	The Gate of the Gate. Title of Mullá Husayn, the first Letter of the Living.
Bábu'lláh	bob-ol-láh	The Gate of God; designation of the Báb.
Badasht	ba-dasht	Hamlet in a plain on the border of Mázindarán. Conference of, lasted twenty-two days (June-July 1848), and proclaimed the annulment of the old Order. (DB 301, n.1).
Badí'	ba-dee...	"Wonderful." Seventeen-year-old boy who delivered Bahá'u'lláh's Tablet to the Sháh of Persia and was in consequence tortured and killed. His given name was Áqá Buzurg of Khurásán; he was converted by the historian Nabíl and won the title of the "Pride of Martyrs."
Badí' calendar	ba-dee...	Name of the Bahá'í calendar. It begins with the year 60 (1844 A.D.). It is found in the Kitáb-i-Asmá', a work of the Báb.

Baghdád	bag-dod	City where Bahá'u'lláh declared His Mission, to His companions, in 1863. Called by Him the City of God, and (prophetically) in the Qur'án the "Abode of Peace." (10:26; 6:127). (GPB 110).
Bahá'í	Ba-há-ee	Of or pertaining to Bahá'u'lláh.
Bahá'í Cycle	Ba-há-ee	Began May 22, 1844, at 2 hours and 11 minutes after sunset, in Shíráz, Persia. Destined to last for no less than 5,000 centuries. GPB xi, 55, 100.
Bahá'í Era	Ba-há-ee	Began May 22, 1844, at 2 hours and 11 minutes after sunset in Shíráz, Persia. The first century of this Era comprises the "Heroic, the Primitive, the Apostolic Age...and also the initial stages of the Formative, the Transitional, the Iron Age " ushered in by 'Abdu'l-Bahá's Will and Testament. (GPB xi, xiii). The Bahá'í Revelation is "the consummation of all the Dispensations within the Adamic Cycle, inaugurating an era of at least a thousand year's duration, and a cycle destined to last no less than five thousand centuries...." (GPB 100).
Bahá'í Revelation	Ba-há-ee	Revelation from God "signaling the end of the Prophetic Era and the beginning of the Era of Fulfillment...." (GPB 100).
Bahá'u'lláh	Ba-há-ol-láh	The Glory of God. "...an appellation specifically recorded in the Persian Bayán, signifying at once the glory, the light and the splendor of God...." (GPB 93-94). "The Supreme Manifestation of God and the Dayspring of His Most Divine Essence." (BA 11). "...never to be identified with that invisible Reality, the Essence of Divinity itself," He is "the complete incarnation of the names and attributes of God." (WOB 114, 112). The Promised One of all the ages. Born Tíhrán, Persia, Nov. 12, 1817; ascended Bahjí, Palestine, now Israel, May 29, 1892.
Bahjí	Ba-h-gee	Delight. Denotes that part of the plain of 'Akká where the Shrine and Mansion of Bahá'u'lláh are situated.
Baḥrayn	ba-h-rain	Bahrein islands in Persian Gulf.
Bálá-khánih	baw-law-con-eh	Balcony.
Bálá-Sarí	baw-law-sa-ree	Above or over head. Term denotes Muslim worshippers who recited their prayers in the upper section of the Shrine of the Imám Ḥusayn at Karbilá. (DB 84).
Balál	ba-lall	Ethiopian convert to Islám and the first muezzin. A speech defect caused him to mispronounce the letter "sh" (shín) as if it were "ss" (sin).
Báqirí	baw-care-ee	Sect of the Imámítes.
Baqíyyatu'lláh	back-ee-yat-ol-láh	Remnant of God; a title of Bahá'u'lláh and also of the Báb.

Buzurg	boz-org	Great.

Caliph	cay-liff or ca-leef	Self-styled vicar of the Prophet of Islám (PDC 99). Sultanate and Caliphate were "the twin pillars of Sunní Islám." (WOB 173). The Caliphate, now abolished, was "the mightiest institution of Islám." (WOB 196). The founders of the Caliphate "usurped the authority of the lawful successors" of Muḥammad (WOB 178). "The cardinal point wherein the Shi'ites (as well as the other sects included under the more general term of Imamites) differ from the Sunnites is the doctrine of the Imámate. According to the belief of the latter, the vicegerency (khiláfat) of the Prophet is a matter to be determined by the choice and election of his followers, and the visible head of the Musulmán world is qualified for the lofty position which he holds less by any special divine grace than by a combination of orthodoxy and administrative capacity. According to the Imámite view, on the other hand, the vicegerency is a matter altogether spiritual; an office conferred by God alone, first by His Prophet, and afterwards by those who so succeeded him, and having nothing to do with the popular choice or approval... the Caliph...is merely the outward and visible Defender of the Faith: the Imám of the Shi'ites is the divinely-ordained successor of the Prophet, one endowed with all perfections and spiritual gifts, one whom all the faithful must obey, whose decision is absolute and final, whose wisdom is super-human, and whose words are authoritative." Browne, E.G., A Traveller's Narrative , 296.
Caravanseraí		Inn for caravans
Chihríq	ch eh-reek	Fortress to which the Báb was transferred about April 10, 1848; designated by Him Jabal-i-Shadíd, the Grievous Mountain.

F

Fáḍil-i-Qá'íní	faw-zel-eh-caw-en-ee	Erudite early Bahá'í who taught in Samarqand and Bukhárá.
------------------------------	----------------------	---

Faqír	fack-eer	Poor, i.e., in need of God's mercy, poor in the sight of God. These are divided into two great classes, those who live by Qur'anic law and those who, though calling themselves Muslims, live without the law. A member of the former is known as a traveler (sálik--saw-leck) on the pathway (ṭaríqat--ta-ree-cat) to heaven. The latter are ázád (awe-zawd) free, or majdhúb (maj-zoob), rapt, abstracted, attracted. There are many orders of faqírs , practising many, and often secret, ceremonies. Their doctrines are Súfí, and their religious ceremonies are called dhikrs (zeckr)--rememberings.
---------------------	----------	---

Faraqlít	fawr-a-kleet	Paraclete. This refers to Muḥammad. Cf. Tablet of 'Abdu'l-Bahá to Charles Mason Remey, S of W, vol. 3, No. 7: "His Holiness the Christ took the Covenant of the 'Paraclete'--which means His Holiness Muḥammad--and announced the glad-tidings of His appearance." Islámíic doctrine is that this is the original of the word translated "Aḥmad" in Qur'án 61:6. Nicholson translates "Aḥmad" laudatissimus .
------------------------	--------------	--

Sayyáh	sigh-áh (or, si-yáh)	A disciple of the Báb (DB 432).

Seal of the Prophets		Muḥammad; Qur'án 33:40. Last Manifestation of the Prophetic Cycle, before the advent of the Day of God. (PDC 83).
Sects		According to a ḥadīth Muḥammad prophecied that His people would be divided into 73 sects, one being true. (There are, however, many more Muslim sects). The Children of Israel were also divided into 72 sects. Cf. 'Umar Khayyám : "The Grape that can with Logic absolute The Two-and-Seventy jarring Sects confute...."
Sháh	shaw	King, especially of Persia.
Sháhansháh	shaw-han-shaw	King of Kings (contraction of Sháhán-sháh which by inversion is sháh-i-sháhán).
Sháh-'Abbás the Great	shaw-hab-boss	Şavaví monarch (1557- 1628); ruled Persia from 1586.
Sháh'Abdu'l-'Azím	shaw-habd-ol-azeem	Muslim town and Shrine 5 or 6 miles south of Ṭíhrán . Long a "bast" where the largely-criminal population was safe from arrest, although the area of protection dwindled inversely with the enormity of the crime; a murderer, for instance, could not leave the mosque courtyard, while debtors could roam at will. (Cf. Browne's A Year Amongst the Persians). The Shrine has a great golden dome.
Sháh-Bahrám	shaw-ba-hrawm	World Savior and Promised One of the Zoroastrians. Fulfilled by Bahá'u'lláh.

Sháh-Zádih	shaw-zaw-deh	Prince.
Shahr-Bánú	sha-hr-baw-noo	Daughter of Yazdigird III, the last Sásáníyán king. Consort of Ḥusayn. Mother of the Fourth Imám.
Shams-i-Tabríz	shamss-eh-tab-reez	Rúmi's spiritual director, a comparatively illiterate but powerful mystic, killed at Qonya in a riot, A.D. 1246.
Shamsí Big	shamssee-beg	Official instructed by Bahá'u'lláh to deliver His Tablet to Turkey's Grand Vizier. Bahá'u'lláh and His family were entertained at Shamsí Big 's house on first reaching Constantinople. (GPB 157; 160).
Shar'	shar (or as in Harry)	In Persia, Muslim religious law, based on Islámic Scriptures, administered by ecclesiastical tribunals. (DB liv-lv).
Sharh-i-Qaşídiy-i-Lámíyyih	shar-neh-cass-ee-day-yeh-lahm-ee-yeh	Writing by Siyyid Kázim alluding to the name "Bahá." (G1. 97).

Shari'ah, Shari'at	shar-ee-yeh shar-ee-yat (each ar as in Harry)	Muslim canonical law. The Law, the Path and the Truth are Ṣūfī terms concerning the journey of the soul toward God. A saying attributed to Muḥammad is: "The Law is My words, the Path is My works, and the Truth is My inward state." (SV 40).
Shaykh	shake	Venerable old man; man of authority; elder, chief, professor, superior of a dervish order, etc.
Shaykh 'Abdu'r-Raḥmān	shake-abd-or-ra-h-mawn	Leader of Qádiríyyih Order, who had at least 100,000 followers. In reply to his queries, Bahá'u'lláh revealed the Four Valleys . (GPB 122).
Shaykh 'Ábid	shake-awe-bed	Tutor at school where the Báb remained five years. (DB 75).
Shaykh-Aḥmad-i-Aḥsá'í	shake-ah-mad-eh-ah-saw-ee (each ah as a in at)	The first of the "twin resplendent lights" who heralded the Báb and Bahá'u'lláh. Born 1753, died near Medina at the age of 81. (GPB 92; DB 42).
Shaykh- 'Alfí-i-Mírí	shake-al-lee-yeh-mee-ree	Muftí of 'Akká and Bahá'í convert.
Shaykh Ḥasan-i-Zunúzf	shake-hass-an-eh-zo-nooz-ee	Believer whom the Báb sent to Karbilá "inasmuch as you are destined to behold, with your own eyes, the beautiful countenance of the Promised Ḥusayn." A prophecy fulfilled October 5, 1851, when he first saw Bahá'u'lláh. (DB 31-32).
Shaykh Ismá'íl	shake-ess-maw-ell	Leader of Khálidíyyih Order, who requested Bahá'u'lláh to reside at his seminary in Sulaymáníyyih.
Shaykh Muḥammad-Báqir	shake moham-mad-baw-care	The "Wolf," to whom Bahá'u'lláh addressed His "Tablet of the Proof" and to whom He referred as "the last trace of sunlight upon the mountain-top." (GPB 232).
Shaykh Muḥammad-Taqíy-i-Najáff	shake-moham-mad-tack-ee-yeh-naj-aff-ee	The Son of the Wolf, to whom the celebrated Epistle was addressed by Bahá'u'lláh.
Shaykh Muḥyi'd-Dín	shake-moh-yeh-deen	The "Seven Valleys" was revealed in answer to the questions of this Qádf.
Shaykh Murtadáy-i-Anṣarí	shake-morta-zaw-yeh-an-saw-ree	Leading mujtahid extolled by Bahá'u'lláh in the Lawḥ-i-Sulṭán . (GPB 143).
Shaykh Tabarsí	shake-tab-ar (as in Harry) - see	Shrine, turned into a fort, where 313 Bábís, a "handful of untrained and frail-bodied students," withstood the besieging armies of Persia from Oct. 12, 1848 to May 9, 1849 (DB 345, 399). Never surrendering, the survivors were brought out of the Fort only when the enemy commander swore a false oath of peace on the Qur'án.
Shaykh 'Uthmán	shake-oss-mawn	Leader of Naqshbandíyyih Order, to which the Sulṭán of Turkey and his entourage belonged. (GPB 122).

Shaykhí	shay-kee	School founded by Shaykh-Aḥmad-i-Aḥsá'í . Among his doctrines, in addition to the imminent dual Advent, were that the Prophet Muḥammad's material body did not ascend on the night of the Mi'rāj; that the Imāms were creative forces (a belief based on Qur'án 23:14: "God, the Best of Creators"); that 'Alí should be particularly venerated.
Shaykhu'l-Islám	shake-ol-ess-lahm	Muḥammadan high-priest; title of highest degree in Muslim religion. Head of religious court, and appointed to every large city by the Sháh.
Shí'ih (also Shi'ite)	r.w. she-eh	Party (of 'Alí). Partisan of 'Alí and of his descendants as the sole lawful "Vicars of the Prophet." The Shí'ahs reject the first three Caliphs, believing that the successorship in Islám belonged rightfully to 'Alí (first Imām and fourth Caliph) and to his descendants by divine right. Originally, the successorship was the vital point of difference, and Islám was divided because Muḥammad's (albeit verbal) appointment of 'Alí was disregarded.
Shí'āvayh (also Sí'āvayh)	sheba-vay	Illustrious Persian grammarian of the Baṣrah school, died A.D. 793. His grammar is titled "The Book of Sí'āvayh."
Shikastih	sheh-cass-teh	"Broken" or cursive script said to have been invented by the Ṣafaví governor of Herat, Murtaḍá Qulí-Khán Shamlú. Derived from Nasta'líq script, invented by Mír 'Alí Tabrízí, scribe of the 7th century A.H.
Shimírán	shem-ee-rahm	Hill villages 6 miles or more north of Tíhrán, serving as summer resorts. (Usually pronounced Shem-rahm).
Shimr	shemr	Yazíd's General, who slew the Imām Ḥusayn. Shimr is a prototype of cruelty and brutality.
Shín	sheen	This letter "sh" stands for Shíráz.
Shír-Gá'h	sheer-gaw	Persian village connected with the Mázindarán upheaval. (DB 362).
Shíráz	sheer-Oz	City in South Persia where the Báb declared His Mission, May 22, 1844.
Shoghi Effendi Rabbani		Guardian of the Bahá'í Faith; 'Abdu'l-Bahá's eldest grandson, the Chosen Branch appointed in His Will and Testament as "Guardian of the Cause of God," authorized interpreter of the Teachings and permanent Head of the Universal House of Justice. "He is the expounder of the words of God and after him will succeed the first born of his lineal descendants." The word shawq signifies "yearning;" effendi is a Turkish honorific signifying "sir, master," and applied to officials and scholars, etc. in some parts of the Middle East. The Guardian resides at the World Center of the Faith, Haifa, Israel.
Shuhadáy-i-Khamsih	sho-had-aw-yeh-cam-seh	A group of five believers who were among those martyred during 'Abdu'l-Bahá's ministry.
Şíghih	seeg-eh	Legalized concubinage or temporary marriage which may be contracted in Shí'ah Islám for varying lengths of time.

Símurgh	see-morg	"Thirty Birds," a mythical bird dwelling in the emerald mountains of Qáf which according to ancient Arabian cosmography encircled the world.
Şiráť	seh-rawt	Impassable to sinners, symbolic bridge over which the believer must pass to heaven. In Islámic tradition it is finer than a hair, sharper than the edge of a sword. Paradise lies beyond it, hell stretches beneath. It is referred to in PDC 88. (Bridge). Lit., Path.
Sirru'lláh	sair-rol-láh	"The Mystery of God," a title conferred by Bahá'u'lláh on 'Abdu'l-Bahá, the only son of Bahá'u'lláh accorded by Him the privilege of being called "the Master." (GPB 242).
Síyáh-Chál	see-yáh-chol	Black Pit in the slums of Tíhrán, where (in August, 1852) Bahá'u'lláh was chained in the darkness three flights of stairs underground, with some 150 thieves and assassins. Here He received the intimations of His world Mission. Holiest place in Persia's capital. (DB 599; BN June 1954).
Síyáh-Dihán	see-yáh-deh-hawn	Village near Qazvín, Persia.
Siyyid	say-yed	Descendant of the Prophet Muḥammad. The word means lord, chief, prince. Lord Curzon says of them in his Persia and the Persian Question , "an intolerable nuisance to the country, deducing from their alleged descent and from the prerogative of the green turban, the right to an independence and insolence of bearing from which their countrymen, no less than foreigners, are made to suffer." (DB xlv). Contrast noble Siyyids "of a pure lineage."
Siyyid-i-Báb	say-yed-eh-Bob	Name by which the Persian people referred to the Báb.
Siyyid Ḥusayn	say-yed-ho-sane	"The Báb's trusted amanuensis and chosen repository of His last wishes." (GPB 90).
Siyyid-i-Dhikr	say-yed-eh-zeckr	Designation of the Báb. The meaning of dhikr include mention, remembrance, and praise.
Siyyid Ibráhím	say-yed-eb-raw-heem	Believer praised by the Báb as "My Friend," etc., and denounced by Mírzá Yahyá. (SW 176).
Siyyid Ismá'íl-i-Zavári'í	say-yed-ess-maw-eel-eh-za-vaw-reh-ee	Immortal follower of Bahá'u'lláh, formerly a noted divine, who offered up his life as a sacrifice. (SW 75; GPB 130; 136).
Siyyid Kázim-i-Rashtí	say-yed-caw-zem-eh-rash-tee	The second of the "twin resplendent lights" who heralded the Báb and Bahá'u'lláh. Died at Karbilá, Dec. 31, 1843. (DB 44).
Siyyid Muḥammad	say-yed-moham-mad	The Anti-Christ of the Bahá'í Revelation (GPB 164). Also called the Siyyid of Işfáhán.
Siyyid Murtađá	say-yed-mort-az-awe	One of the Seven Martyrs of Tíhrán.
Siyyid of Findirisk	say-yed, fend-air-esk	Abu'l-Qásim, poet and metaphysician of Işfáhán (middle Şafaví period.) Mulla Şadra was his pupil.

Siyyid Ṣādiq-i-Tabātabā'ī	say-yed-saw-deck- eh-tab-aw-tab-aw-ee	Mujtahid denounced by Bahá'u'lláh as "the Liar of Ṭihrán." He authored the decree condemning every Persian male Bahá'í to death, and every Bahá'í woman to deportation. Ṣādiq means truthful. (GPB 232).
Siyyid Yahyá-i-Dárábí	say-yed-ya-h-yaw- yeh-daw-raw-bee	See Vaḥíd.
Ṣubḥ-i-Azal	sob-heh-az-AI	Morning of Eternity (Mírzá Yahyá). Bahá'u'lláh cites Amos 4:12-13, "He...that maketh the morning darkness" with reference to him (SW 146). See GPB 90; 113; 114; 115).
Sublime Porte		Formerly, the Ottoman court. Government of the Turkish Empire from the gate (porte) of the Sulṭán's palace where justice was anciently administered.
Ṣúf	soof	Wool; the practice of wearing the woollen robe, i.e. garb of Muslim mystic, is one definition of Ṣúfism.
Ṣúfí	soo-fee	This word, probably derived from the Arabic for wool, denotes the mystics in Islám. Divided into innumerable sects, differing in customs, dress, observances, their common goal is to rejoin the Godhead from which all things emanate, through ecstasy (vajd) and contemplation. Life to them is a journey (safar) having various stages (manázil); the soul is an exile, a traveller going homeward, seeking reunion (vaṣl) with God, and thus achieving nothingness--(faná)--"total absorption into the Deity, extinction." Bahá'u'lláh teaches: "By self-surrender and perpetual union with God is meant that men should merge their will wholly in the Will of God, and regard their desires as utter nothingness beside His purpose." (G1. 337). 'Ishq, love (of God) has been termed "the one distinguishing feature of Ṣúfí mysticism." Cf. Hughes, Dict. of Is.
Ṣúfí literature		Written in its special terminology, this literature assigns spiritual meanings to a long list of words such as wine, love, the cypress, the letter alif, the Ka'bih, etc.
Sulaymáníyyih	sol-ay-mawn-ee-yeh	Town in Northeast 'Iráq; Bahá'u'lláh lived in retirement two years in Kurdistán, first on an isolated mountain named Sar-Galú, later in the town of Sulaymáníyyih at a theological seminary. (April 10, 1854-March 19, 1856).
Sulṭánu'sh-Shuhadá	sol-tawn-osh-sho- had-aw	King of Martyrs, eminent Isfáhání who, together with his brother the Beloved of Martyrs, was put to death by Mír Muḥammad-Ḥusayn (who denounced them as Bábís to escape repaying the large debt he owed them), Shaykh Muḥammad-Báqir and the Zillu's-Sulṭán.
Sunní (also Sunnite)	sonn-nee.	From Sunna (the Way or Practice of the Prophet, as reported in the ḥadíth). By far the largest sect of Islám, this includes the four so-called orthodox sects: Hanbalites, Hanafites, Malikites, Shafiites. These four principle schools of Muslim jurisprudence are founded to a considerable extent on the Sunna. Sunnites regard the first Caliphs as legitimate successors of Muḥammad and accept the "six authentic" books of tradition. They believe the Caliph must be elected and must be a member of the Quraysh--the Prophet's tribe.

Súratu'l-Haykal, also Súriy-i-Haykal	sue-ra-tol-hay-cal	Súrih of the Temple, by Bahá'u'lláh; with the most important of His Tablets to sovereigns of the earth, its Author ordered this Tablet to be written in the shape of a pentacle, symbolizing the temple of man and identified by Him as the "Temple" mentioned by Zechariah. (GPB 212; PUP 427; PDC 47).
Súrih	sue-reh	A row or series; term used by Muslims for the chapters of the Qur'án.
Súriy-i-Amr	sue-ray-eh-amr	Tablet of Bahá'u'lláh unmistakably affirming His Mission, and formally read aloud to Mírzá Yahyá. (GPB 166). (Adrianople).
Súriy-i-Aṣḥáb	sue-ray-eh-as-hob	Súrih of the Companions, by Bahá'u'lláh (Adrianople).
Súriy-i-Damm	sue-ray-eh-damm	Súrih of Blood by Bahá'u'lláh (Adrianople).
Súriy-i-Ghuṣn	sue-ray-eh-gossn	Tablet of the Branch, by Bahá'u'lláh, in which He writes of 'Abdu'l-Bahá, "There hath branched from the Sadratu'l-Muntahá this sacred and glorious Being, this Branch of Holiness...." (WOB 135). (Adrianople).
Súriy-i-Hajj	sue-ray-eh-haj	Súrih of the Pilgrimage, by Bahá'u'lláh (Adrianople).
Súriy-i-Mulúk	sue-ray-eh-mo-luke	Súrih of Kings; "the most momentous Tablet revealed by Bahá'u'lláh" (GPB 171). (Adrianople).
Súriy-i-Ra'ís	sue-ray-eh-ra-eess	Súrih of the Chief; addressed to 'Alí Páshá, Grand Vizier of Turkey, by Bahá'u'lláh. From the moment it was revealed, He writes, "until the present day, neither hath the world been tranquillized, nor have the hearts of its peoples been at rest...." (WOB 194). Revealed August, 1868, at Káshánih near Gallipoli; completed soon after at Gyawur-Kyuy. (GPB 172, 174, 180).
Súriy-i-Ṣabr	sue-ray-eh-sabr	Súrih of Patience, revealed by Bahá'u'lláh and extolling the sufferers of Nayríz. ('Iráq).
Súriy-i-Tawḥíd	sue-ray-eh-tow-heed	Súrih of the Declaration of the Oneness of God, writing of the Báb, referred to in SW 41.
Surra-man-Ra'á	sue-ra-man-ra-awe	Samarra; city in 'Iráq whose name means Gladdened is he who hath beheld it--where, Shí'ahs hold, the 12th Imám disappeared in an underground passage in A.H. 329.
